

A Story of Resilience and Hope

Rohini P. Baral, was born in Ilam District, with a vision-related disability. Despite facing challenges, he attended a special school until the 5th grade but couldn't continue his education. Motivated by his experiences, he got involved in organization for persons with disabilities and participated in training programs.

He married Nirmala Baral, who had been physically disabled due to childhood burns. Together, they started a successful home-based liquid soap business, funded with personal savings and NPR 20,000 from Milijuli Group. Rohini stays active in the Milijuli Group, prioritizing savings, attending meetings and focusing on their son's education. They believe the program (DPRP) has greatly benefited them and inspired others in the community with disabilities.
